

About the event

QURECA, the Unconventional Computing Lab and Quantum-South are organising the second edition of the largest quantum event in Latin-America which will be held online from 8th - 10th June, 2022. This event is specially designed to create awareness and promote quantum technologies to build a connected quantum community. Through this 3-days event, we are bringing together all the researchers, entrepreneurs, start-ups, and industry collaborators to participate, learn, exchange ideas, connect, network, and grow, to be part of a ever-growing quantum community in Latin-America.

Organisers

QURECA creates global opportunities with Quantum Technologies. They offer all the resources you need to be ready, make a difference, and create value; providing the link between the stakeholders in the quantum community. Some of their services include business development, training and resourcing.

Quantum South is a multidisciplinary quantum computing software company, with operations in Europe and Latin America that designs solutions with a quantum computing approach.

The Unconventional Computing Lab contributes primarily to the understanding of the physical, mathematical, implementation, and societal aspects of computation, producing ground-breaking science towards understanding the ultimate capacities and limits of computation.
